Attorney General Instructed to Go After Somebody for Juggling With Mine Valuations If He Can Find an Opening

From the tenor of a resolution passed by the state tax commission yesterday it is quite apparent that somebody has got to do something forthwith or take his chance in some kind of a legal action. The resolution is specific as far as the board is concerned but passes the question at issue along to the attorney general with instructions to bestir himself. It would appear that the gentlemen expected to do the trembling are those comprising the boards of supervisors of Yavapai and Cochise counties, though the matter is left open for the hitting of any head that the attorney general may see sticking up. The preamble fully explains the issue.

WHEREAS, it appears from the report and opinion of Attorney General Hullard, that the reduction made on August 19, 1912, by the boards of equalization of the counties of Yavapai and Cochise, relative to certain mining properties in said counties, were illegal and void, and

WHEREAS, the attorney general of the state of Arizona has requested of this commission instructions, what course to pursue, in view of the illegality of said reductions,

BE IT RESOLVED, that the attorney general of the state of Arizona is requested to take such proceedings on behalf of the state of Arizona as he deems wise and just to have set aside all illegal reductions made by the county boards of equalization of the counties of Yavapai and Cochise, relative and pertaining to any assessable property, upon the assessment roll of said counties, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to said attorney general, with the request to take as immediate action as he can find feasible.

AMUSEMENTS

THE WIGWAM.

"A Temporary Truce," a Biograph produced in two films of 1,000 feet each, "The Puppet's Hour," "A Citizen in the Making" and "The Automatic Moving Company" compose the special bill to be given for the second and last time at the Wigwam tonight.

With the extra film in order to produce "A Temporary Truce," a total of 5,000 feet of motion pictures will be shown on the special program. It is the longest bill arranged for patrons of the Wigwam in many weeks and one which nobody should miss.

"A Temporary Truce" is a thrilling drama, "The Puppet's Hour" is a Lubin, "A Citizen in the Making," a Selig educational drama of stevedore life and pastimes, and "The Automatic Moving Company" a film of more than usual interest.

THE EMPRESS.

Phoenixians who enjoy a good stock company will be delighted to hear that Joe Dietrich, who played character roles during the early part of the engagement of the MacLean company at the Empress last spring, is to return to the city at the head of his own organization to open the fall dramatic season.

Mr. Dietrich has had a varied experience both as a director of the histrionic work of others and as an actor of undoubted ability. Another former favorite with Phoenix theater goers, who will play ingenue parts in the new company, is Miss Lois Bolton. Robin Williamson formerly with the MacLean Stock, is also one of the cast.

Stella Adams and Sherman Bainbridge both well known on the coast, will play the leading roles aided by a strong support which includes beside those already mentioned, Elsie Fowler, Lella Knowles, Max Weizman, Jack McDonald and Frank Buttolf.

The repertoire of the company includes such "Royalty Plays" as "Merely Mary Ann" the play that brought fame to Elinor Robeson; "Little Minister" in which Maude Adams starred; "Tribby" known to all theater goers for the excellent work done by Beerbohn Tree as "Svergal"; Clyde Fitch's "Gires," characterized by one lover of the drama as "The best play ever written," "Salome," "Jane," "The Blue Mouse," "Man On the Box," "Alas Jimmy Valentine" all big New York hits of the past few years and that old favorite "Sweet Clover."

With such a cast in dramas that have proven their intrinsic worth and at popular prices, there is no doubt that Phoenixians have many an evening of pleasure ahead of them this autumn.

THE COLISEUM

A third vaudeville number was added to the Coliseum program Saturday evening, known as "Dupli, the Boy from Twin Hollow." Dupli does a monologue and makes a hit with a good share of the audience. The song numbers of Miss Beulah Maple were entirely new and last evening Ward and McCullough cast several new jokes and rag time melodies across the foot lights. The pictures were also fresh and the only familiar feature of the evening was the faces of the performers and the ticket seller at the door. The same bill will be repeated tonight and Monday evening with a complete change of program Tuesday night.

JERSEY VELVET IS SUPEREXCELLENT

New Brand of Ice Cream Is Making a Place for Itself in Phoenix Homes

The Farmers Co-operative creamery which recently installed new machinery for the manufacture of ice cream in large quantities, thus entering a new field for creamery enterprises in this vicinity, is making a great success of its undertaking. Its product was given the trade name of Jersey Velvet ice cream and that brand has already become a popular name in the community.

The company maintains no parlors for the retailing of its product but wholesales it to those who do and those who serve it in conjunction with other things like the soda fountains, restaurants, etc. Also it invades the retail trade to the extent of supplying family orders or like small consignments, sold in any quantity above the single dish trade.

The plant is a perfectly new one and is installed at the creamery of the company on Third street, between Adams and Washington. Its product, when desired is put up in small packages, convenient for handling, or single serving, in oiled paper. It is, of course, made in all flavors and color designs as the up-to-date caterers of the day furnish it. That its quality is of the best can be testified to by The Republican force which yesterday gloated in the generosity of the manufacturers.

SELF-TONED AND SILVER AND GOLD BROCADE

Brocade promises to be quite as popular during the coming season, as was the case last year. The soft and light makes in this material, however, are the ones that have taken the public taste, and whole dresses will shortly be seen of this fascinating fabric, especially as it is now to be made in more moderately priced clothes than formerly. Self-tone brocades will be especially good and such schemes as silver on silver and gold on gold will have a prominent place. The introduction of gold into the work itself is a strong tendency of the moment, and there is no cloth that should be more influenced by this than brocade. Gold floral design is good, gold ground is better and brocade golden silks will hold a strong place among the evening dresses of the winter season.—Women's Wear.

BETTS WILL INSPECT THE ROOSEVELT DAM

Having Seen All the Side Shows in Arizona He Will Now Visit the Main Tent

A suggestion that Harvey Betts had overlooked a single point of interest in Arizona in his meanderings, would bring forth a loud laugh. But the well known Santa Fe traveling agent has to confess for the good of his soul, such as it is there is one lion in the new state which touches no familiar chord in his memory. This morning Betts is hastening to repair the oversight. With a party large enough to overflow from four automobiles, he leaves for Roosevelt and the dam. There has been a good explanation made for Betts' neglect to see the water-bank. It is said he is so used to traveling Santa Fe all the way, he can't tear himself away from the twin ribbons of steel long enough to make the journey over the desert. Of course a man who has his cares, matters pertaining to the people and the land through which his road runs, ought to see what makes the country. In this case, Mr. Betts says, he is breaking away after a hard fight with his own bashfulness. When the line of the choo choo fades in the distance, it may be necessary to hold him in the car, and in case it does fall upon his fellow passengers to stay his flight and see that he makes the entire trip, they will be equal to the task. He'll have to go after he has started.

KILTS ARE COOLEST IN SUMMER

Roderick Chisholm, an Expert Tailor, Says Trousers are not Natural
What is the ideal garment for men's wear in the summer time? Is it the free and graceful kilt?
The latter idea was suggested by J. Grant Ramsey, F. R. E. S., who, when speaking at the Institute of Hygiene, considered that the adoption of the kilt would be ornamental as well as hygienic.
An expert asked for advice on the vexed question was Roderick Chisholm of the Tailor and Cutter. Mr. Chisholm is not only an expert in kilts but he is a red hot enthusiast as well.

He says he would like to see the whole of the Sassenach race arrayed in flowing kilts. It would contribute, he considers, both to their comfort and to their physical welfare.
"As regards sheer comfort," he said, "there is no comparison between kilts and trousers.
"Trousers are stuffy, irksome, get in the way and however well they are cut they never can be made to suit the different actions of the figure properly."
He took a pair of scissors and a piece of paper, and with deft fingers cut a pair of excellent trousers, and showed how artfully they were constructed to give the minimum of discomfort.
"But with the best cutting in the world, and with the actions of getting up and sitting down, both having to be performed in them, they are not a natural garment. You cannot give enough length from the hip to the knee, and there is bound to be a catch somewhere," was his critical comment.
"Breeches are better than trousers," continued Mr. Chisholm, "but kilts are the best of all. They are an ideal garment for hot weather.
"And in winter time, too, they are excellent, for they are so constructed as to give the very best protection for the body, and with their adoption there would be fewer internal colds. This was noticed particularly with the Highland regiments at the time of the Boer war."

Mr. Chisholm's eyes took on the faraway look of the visionary and the dreamer of splendid dreams. "If everyone wore kilts," he went on enthusiastically, "the physical fitness of the race would be improved.
"You have to be physically fit, in the first place, to be able to wear kilts at all.
The kilt allows freer action, and by its very construction it compels a swing to the walk, and sets the muscles going. Look how the Highland regiments march.
The ideal garment for summer wear is a thin tartan. But a tweed kilt with an ordinary coat would do quite well."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.
